

Edward ReynoldsDART Program Manager - The Johns Hopkins Applied Physics Laboratory

Edward Reynolds is the DART Mission Project Manager. He has worked in APL's Space Exploration Sector for 37 years – starting with the spacecraft integration of a small spacecraft called PolarBEAR in 1985. His career progressed to system engineering and then to project management. Previous missions include STEREO, Van Allen Probes, and other science missions.